Positive Behavior Management

Leave a Note

Depending on the student and the baggage they carry with them, positive or negative feedback may result in negative responses by the child. Some students feel that praise will harm their place in their social group. After all, pleasing the teacher, acing a test or being cooperative might be signs of “selling out”. For this reason, students often respond negatively to public praise. The following are ideas to communicate that remain between you and the student.
